3. To learn more about the organization and potential learning opportunities and to view the primary contact for practicum inquiries, click on the little triangle to the left of the site name. If an agency provided additional information it will be listed in the overview section. Unfortunately not all agencies provide additional details but it is still a good way of knowing if an agency has worked with UMSSW practicum student before. FYI—an agency not listed in Sonia can still be a practicum site but has to be vetted by the UMSSW Field Education Program first.

BriefOverview

Area of Social Work Practice:
Youth Homes residential care facilities provide therapeutic group home care for youth with SED diagnoses who are often involved with Youth Court or in the care of CFSD; short and long-term shelter care to youth in need of crisis stabilization; and longer-term guidance home living for youth aging out of foster care or emancipating from their families.

Practicum Student Role, Responsibilities & Learning Opportunities:
Should the educational program allow, practicum students would be hired as paid, part-time Youth Counselors responsible for the tasks described in the attached job description. MSW students may have additional opportunities to participate in planning and facilitating skill-building and/or therapeutic groups. All practicum students would be welcomed to engage in programming projects, such as the development and implementation of cultural diversity plans. Students must be at least 21 years of age to work within our homes.

Additional comments:
We hope to connect with and provide valuable learning opportunities to social work students at all points in their education and would be happy to explore creative options for supporting student learning that may fall outside of the traditional practicum experience, such as workshops, guest lectures, or micro-internship projects that may allow for students to incorporate additional skills or areas of interest, such as art or writing, into their learning experience. Please feel free to reach out if any students or faculty would like to propose an idea for a learning opportunity outside of or in addition to a practicum placement.
